PROJECT STABILIZATION AGREEMENT – STATUS REPORT

Vice Chancellor of Business Services Andy Dunn provided a status report, noting that the scope and term of the agreement are still under negotiation, and requested direction from the Board in this regard. Mike Vlaming, lead negotiator for the District, provided a summary of the negotiations and responded to questions. He clarified that a Project Stabilization Agreement (PSA), once signed, would be part of the bid package for projects covered by the agreement, so if the decision is made to terminate the PSA, the PSA would still be in effect for any of those projects bid prior to that decision. Responding to questions from Trustees Casas Frier and Fong, he explained that industry practice is mixed in terms of establishing a termination date, but the reason for including one is to set a date at which the performance of the agreement can be evaluated and a decision made on whether to extend the agreement, make modifications or cancel it. Trustee Fong asked about using the public works bid limit of $15,000 for the scope of the agreement. Vice Chancellor Dunn noted an important court case which established that the criteria for PSAs should be larger multi-trade projects.

Neil Struthers, representing the Santa Clara and San Benito Counties Building and Construction Trades Council, offered his view that the trades would not sign an agreement containing a termination date or time frame that was shorter than the life of the bond and all projects specified in the agreement. Nicole Goehring, Government Affairs Director for the Golden Gate Chapter of Associated Builders and Contractors, addressed the Board regarding potential negative impacts of a PSA. Refuting her claim that local contractors would be discouraged from bidding, Alan Garofalo and Rick Reyes of the East Side Union High School District noted the success of their district’s PSA, which has been in place for six years. A local contractor expressed his opposition to PSAs. Construction workers Felipe Cepeda and Byron Wilson and community member Evangelina Nevarez expressed their support for PSAs. SEIU representative Brian O’Neill also spoke in favor, stressing how PSAs ensure health care coverage for construction workers.

Trustee Plotkin explained his rationale for supporting a lower threshold around $200,000 for projects to be covered by a PSA, noting that this is in line with what has been negotiated at other local community college districts and represents good public policy values that support the dignity of the individual to have access to fair living wages and affordable health care. He also argued against setting a termination date.

President Swenson discussed the Board’s fiduciary responsibility to the voters who expect that projects will be completed without added expense. He cited academic studies sponsored by both PSA opponents and supporters which demonstrate that the complexity of PSAs discourages independent, non-union contractors from bidding on projects. He noted that the District’s history on construction projects reveals that larger projects are almost always performed by union contractors, while 70% of smaller projects — those under $3 million — are performed by non-union contractors. He expressed his view that PSAs are well-suited to larger contracts but not so well-suited to smaller projects, and for that reason said he would support a PSA with a larger threshold in line with the District’s past practice, with a termination date that would provide the opportunity for an evaluation.

Trustee Bechtel said that she had done research on other PSAs and believes it would be a mistake to have a threshold as low as $200,000, but if that were the decision, she would only support it with a termination date that would provide the opportunity for an evaluation. Mr. Struthers provided a copy of correspondence with an author of one of the academic studies cited by President Swenson in which the author said the statement that PSAs discourage non-union contractors was taken out of context. Trustee Fong expressed his opinion that there should not be a termination date and that the agreement should apply to all of the construction projects funded by the bond. Trustee Casas Frier expressed her support for a lower threshold in the range of $50,000-$200,000 as a means to limit the inconsistency and labor unrest that might result from having union and non-union construction workers on simultaneous projects. She stressed the importance of affordable health care for all construction workers that a PSA would provide. She expressed support for an evaluative component, perhaps following the completion of certain projects, that would enable the Board to make the best financial decision for the District.

Mr. Vlaming said he would attempt to work with the Building and Construction Trades Council toward an agreement that best balances the comments voiced by each Board member in terms of scope and an evaluative component.

President Swenson announced a short recess at 8:47 p.m., then reconvened the meeting at 8:57 p.m.

Item 13
Study Session: Publication and Use of Instructional Materials

De Anza President Brian Murphy established the context of the study session, which was an opportunity for the Board to learn about the range of choices available to faculty and the implications for Board policy regarding both instructor-generated materials and the use of Open Educational Resources (OER). Dr. Larry Toy, President Emeritus of the Foundation for California Community Colleges, provided an overview of the publishing industry and textbook pricing. Foothill Interim Dean of Language Arts Paul Starer presented an overview of the choices faculty face in terms of instructional materials and publishing, and the impact on students.

De Anza Academic Senate President Wayne Chenoweth, Foothill Academic Senate President Dolores Davison and Districtwide Academic Senate President Barbara Illowsky provided information and responded to questions. Dr. Davison noted that the right to choose a textbook is ultimately a faculty issue and an area of primacy for faculty, comments supported by Trustee Plotkin. Trustees Bechtel and Casas Frier expressed support for the peer review process described in the Statewide Academic Senate publication “Textbook Issues: Economic Pressures and Academic Trustee Casas Frier also expressed support for a student grievance procedure that addresses pricing for instructor-generated material. Student Trustee Snow said her concern is with the supplemental materials charged to students that are not widely used beyond a particular instructor’s class.

Trustee Plotkin stated a key issue for the Board to consider: how does the District create incentives for faculty who wish to seek out less expensive instructional materials? Dean Starer elucidated a related consideration: how can the Board craft a policy that prevents abuse without completely stifling incentive?

Dr. Toy mentioned a couple of ideas to address incentives in a limited budget environment: seek funding from foundations to pay faculty to develop OER texts, or work within a consortium of colleges where each educational institutional can assume the responsibility of developing a different OER textbook. Chancellor Kanter offered to work with the Academic and Professional Issues Committee toward a policy that synthesizes the ideas discussed in both the study session and in the Statewide Academic Senate publication.

VTA Transit Center at De Anza College

De Anza President Brian Murphy reported that, based on an analysis of traffic flow and the proposed Transit Center design, college administration has concluded that significant additional expenses would be incurred by the college, 300 parking spaces would be lost, and there would be a negative impact on DASB funds. Therefore, he does not believe design option A is feasible, nor is there another feasible option on the college grounds for a Transit Center.

DASB President Rahela Sami said that a number of students had been waiting to speak in opposition to the Transit Center but had to leave due to time constraints. She explained that students are concerned about loss of parking spaces and loss of funds for student programs that would result if the Transit Center were built on campus. DASB Senator Robin Claassen further explained how the loss of space would negatively impact Flea Market revenues that are used to fund a variety of student programs. Valley Transit Authority representative Bill Katz expressed interest in reviewing with college staff the analysis that was performed. Chancellor Kanter reported that she spoke to Cupertino City Manager Dave Knapp who said the city may have a possible alternative site for the Transit Center. Student Trustee Eldridge said he agrees that the Transit Center should not be situated on campus and he supports efforts to find an alternative site.

EDUCATIONAL INFORMATION SYSTEM: EVALUATION RESULTS OF RFP 1100; STEERING COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATION; FUNDING OPTIONS

Vice Chancellor of Technology Fred Sherman thanked the members of the Educational Information System (EIS) Steering Committee and the Functional Teams. He then introduced representatives from SunGard and Oracle who were in the audience. He reviewed the process of evaluation, scoring guidelines and cost comparisons, then presented the Steering Committee’s recommendation to purchase the SunGard Banner system, which provides the best value to the District and meets more of the District’s needs than the competing Datatel Colleague system.
Vice Chancellor Sherman reviewed the system acquisition costs and sources of funding. He noted that ongoing system costs will require an annual augmentation from the general fund in the amount of $362,000 during the first year and rising to $619,000 in year ten. Lastly, he explained that Oracle’s discount pricing, if obtained through SunGard, would save the District $1 million, but a contract must be signed by February 29, 2008. Details of the contract are still being negotiated. After discussion, it was decided to hold a special Board meeting to approve the contract on February 27, 2008 at 5:00 p.m.
