Each College has the responsibility to develop critical thinking which can germinate best in an atmosphere of free interchange of ideas. Those responsible for selecting speakers will attempt to obtain authorities who represent diverse views in the best tradition of the American open forum.

The administration, however, shall determine that each speaker agrees to the following three provisions before he/she will be permitted to speak:

1. That the speaker's background shall be made known to his/her audience as accurately and completely as possible.
2. That he/she shall answer, without exception, unselected questions from the floor which are related to his/her address.
3. That he/she shall allow his/her remarks to be analyzed critically to any degree desired in classes.
