BOARD BUSINESS

Education center update: After meeting in closed session, board President Pearl Cheng announced that trustees had selected the former Onizuka Air Force Station in Sunnyvale as the preferred site for construction of a new education center. The board directed the administration to take steps toward possibly acquiring the land using a public benefit conveyance process. This would allow the district to obtain the property essentially for free from the federal government.

Trustees cited the unique opportunity to acquire the 9.6-acre property at virtually no cost; its proximity to highways, public transportation and areas of population growth; and its visibility and location in a dynamic and growing part of Sunnyvale. Cost to the district is estimated at approximately $5 million to clear and prepare the site for construction. The education center project would be funded through the district's 2006 Measure C bond.

Sunnyvale Mayor Melinda Hamilton and Vice Mayor Jim Griffith were present at the meeting and expressed enthusiasm for having Foothill-De Anza operate an education center in their community. The district must complete due diligence on the site before a transaction could take place, and the Sunnyvale City Council, acting as the Onizuka Local Redevelopment Authority, must amend the Onizuka redevelopment and reuse plan to identify an educational center as the preferred use. Foothill-De Anza could then move forward with an application to the U.S. Department of Education for a public benefit conveyance.

The Onizuka site is located in the Moffett Business Park, home to such companies as Juniper Networks, Yahoo and Network Appliance. Google recently announced it plans to lease 26.5 acres there. The other property the board considered was 10 acres at 895 Kifer Road, Sunnyvale, which a joint venture of Orchard Partners/Lane Partners offered in a "build to suit" arrangement. Cost to the district of that property was approximately $16 million.

The current Middlefield Campus education center operates in rented facilities at Cubberley Center in Palo Alto and there is no apparent opportunity to purchase land there. A relocated education center would continue under Foothill's administration but would be available to house course offerings from both Foothill and De Anza. The new center is being planned with the intent of leveraging partnerships with other colleges and universities, high schools, regional occupational programs, community-based organizations, local government, business and industry. Foothill is working with Mission College on opportunities to collaborate at the Onizuka site.

INFORMATION AND ACTION ITEMS

Opening of negotiations: Trustees approved the opening of negotiations on numerous articles contained in the agreement with the Association of Classified Employees (ACE), which expires Oct. 31, 2011, and on several articles identified for reopeners in the agreement with the California School Employees Association (CSEA) Chapter 96, Unit A.

Food service providers: The board authorized a three-year contract with Pacific Dining to provide food services at Foothill's Campus Center and the Krause Center for Innovation. Pacific Dining currently provides food services at Gavilan, Skyline and Cañada colleges, the College of San Mateo and DeVry University in Fremont, and those campuses reported high levels of satisfaction with the services. Pacific Dining uses local products and sustainable/compostable products. The current contract with Fresh & Natural expires this month.

Trustees authorized three-year contracts with Specialty Coffee Services and Mediterranena Café, respectively De Anza's current coffee and convenience store providers, but rejected bids from current food service providers MTM Enterprises LLC (Una Mas Mexican Grill) and Hong Fu Gourmet Chinese Restaurant Inc. because they were non-responsive to the bid specifications. Instead, contracts with those two providers will be extended through Dec. 16 while new proposals are solicited.

Reduction in service: The board approved elimination of the vacant position of admissions and records assistant at Foothill College for lack of work or funds. Trustee Joan Barram said that she regrets losing positions but observed that such decisions are much easier when the positions are vacant.

He noted that the photovoltaic installations being constructed this summer will benefit the college for years to come.

Presidents' comments: De Anza President Brian Murphy updated the board on efforts to publicize the availability of VTA EcoPass stickers that are free to enrolled De Anza students with a DASB card (<http://deanza.edu/ecopass>). He commended Julie Ceballos and the college web team for their efforts to get the word out and called Student Trustee Kinner "one of the heroes" in bringing the EcoPass to students. The stickers, which are good for unlimited travel seven days a week during the quarter on VTA buses and light rail, are subsidized by a new mandatory fee of $5 per quarter for full-time students ($4 for part-time). The fee was approved by a vote of De Anza students. President Murphy thanked Trustees Barram and Casas Frier for attending the closing Summer Bridge for Foster Youth event.

Foothill President Judy Miner thanked Chancellor Linda Thor and Trustees Betsy Bechtel and Bruce Swenson for attending the Foothill summer gala fundraiser.
